

Write a short, creative story about: create a hello world python code

Hello world, I'm a developer of a new JavaScript-based game called "Hello World!", and I'm writing a new one for the author. The code is very simple, and I'm using Python 3.5. I have to do some security checks to make sure I don't get access to my website. I also need to delete all code from my website, and I'm using the Django REST API. All of these have to be done by the author, but if I'm not using the Django REST API, I can't use my code.

I've created a new blog post for you to follow and read
